

Take A Quick Look At Your Assignments And Courses

When you click the Learn button on the main nav bar, two buttons on the lower toolbar are available: Assignments and Courses.

- Assignments - Displays your assignments, grouped by course. See "How to view and open your current assignments" below.
- Courses - Displays all courses assigned to you by your teacher. See "How to view all your courses, units, and assignments" on the next page.

How to view and open your current assignments

The Learn > Assignments page is the default page that you see after logging in. It shows you all of your assigned Odysseyware courses (subjects) and the next few assignments due in each course.

Other assignment information and features, identified above, include:

Item	Info/Feature	Description
A	Due	Due date for the assignments. If the assignment is past the due date, you see an Overdue notification in a different color.

Item	Info/Feature	Description
B	Assignment symbol 	Assignment type symbol. See "Assignment type symbols" below . <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Hover over the symbol to see the Start Date and Teacher of Record.
C	Assignment title	Title of the assignment.
D	Score	Assignment score if you have attempted the assignment at least once already.
E	Status	Status of the assignment. Typically, it will show a Status of Assigned
F	Go To  arrow	Click the arrow (or anywhere in the assignment bar) to open an assignment and start working on it.
G	Assignment Blocked  symbol	Indicates the assignment cannot be started until you message your teacher to unblock it. See "Message your teachers to unblock assignments" on page 17 .

Assignment type symbols

Odysseyware uses symbols for each assignment type within an assignment unit so that you can easily identify the type of assignment.

Symbol	Assignment type	Symbol	Assignment type	Symbol	Assignment type
	Alternate test (Pre-test)		Quiz		Alternate quiz
	Lesson		Reference (Such as Course Overview, Glossary and Credits)		Alternate semester test
	Project		Test (or Unit Test)		Alternate final test
	Final exam (test)		Semester exam (test)		Review

How to view all your courses, units, and assignments

Odysseyware courses have a course structure:

- At the top level are Courses (subjects), such as Algebra I.
- Next are Units. A course can have multiple units. Units typically have titles that indicate the scope (concepts and topics) of the schoolwork covered in the unit.

How to view all your courses, units, and assignments

- And, then come Assignments. Units contain assignments. Assignments are types of schoolwork, such as Lessons, Projects, Quizzes, and Tests. The sequence of the assignments in a unit is designed so that you learn the material in order to meet your learning goals.

Using the Courses tab, you can "drill into" all your assigned courses, units, and then assignments. This is where you can open completed assignments so that you can study for upcoming quizzes and tests. See "Review your work before beginning quizzes or tests" on page 47.

Tip Depending on how your school permissions to review graded quizzes and tests and see correct and incorrect answers is set up, completed questions may be "color-coded" so you can easily see which questions you answered correctly, which were incorrect, and any questions you got partially correct. See "Review results of quizzes and tests" on page 50.

Courses information

On the Courses page you see a list showing each course (subject) you are enrolled in as well as important details about each course. On the Courses page, several features are available so that you can drill into units and assignments.

Other course features, identified above, include:

Item	Feature	Description
A	Title	Course title. May include the course year, state identifier, and course code.
B	Score	Your current score in the course.
C	Progress	Your progress in the course indicated by a progress bar and percent complete.
